REDISCOVERING MEMORIES

lamatilde designs the new LAQUA Countryside resort, opened by Cinzia and Antonino Cannavacciuolo at the heart of Sorrento's inland

The LAQUA Countryside project has come to life in a quiet and cozy resort with six suites and the Cannavacciuolo Countryside restaurant, based in a former manor house – now owned by the Cannavacciuolo Group – where Antonino himself spent part of his childhood. The building rises in the midst of an ample garden that blends practical and aesthetic use, interacting with the surrounding landscape: two vegetable gardens and an orchard are an expressive representation of the outdoor environment, but also yield high-quality local ingredients used by the restaurant. lamatilde designed the new LAQUA Countryside managing every step from initial concept to architectural renovation – realized in partnership with architect Valentina Autiero – including interiors, styling and garden design – in collaboration with architect Stefano Olivari.
