PROJECT

WILD INSIDE

Sarah Zohar, interior designer, and director of Sarah Z Designs has designed a residence in Miami that has all-natural elements with some unique Boca do Lobo furniture.

Located in BelHarbour, a small luxury village in Miami, Florida an amazing interior design is paying tribute to what surrounds it. Sarah Zohar, director of Sarah Z Designs firm, also based in the city, was responsible for the project and had as her main goal to tell a story and perfectly capture the client's personality.

The interior combines with the outside, as BelHarbour is a luxurious and exclusive village, so the project truly expresses the vibe of the surroundings. Sarah was inspired by the nature that encircles the place, as well as by her love for science and wildlife, and that is well visible. Examples of that are the pebble lights, blue shades in fabrics, rugs, and wall-coverings that remind the ocean, as well as natural stone and nature-shaped pieces.
