ORGANIC EXPRESSION

The Goetheanum, hailed as a "true masterpiece of 20th-century expressionist architecture" is also a very good example of organic architecture that was enriched by the contribution of many artists

The Goetheanum, located in Dornach, in the canton of Solothurn, Switzerland, is the world center for the anthroposophical movement. It also represents the pioneering usage of visible concrete in architecture, particularly in its achievement of sculptural shapes on an architectural scale. The building was designed by Rudolf Steiner and named after Johann Wolfgang von Goethe.

STADIUM DESIGN

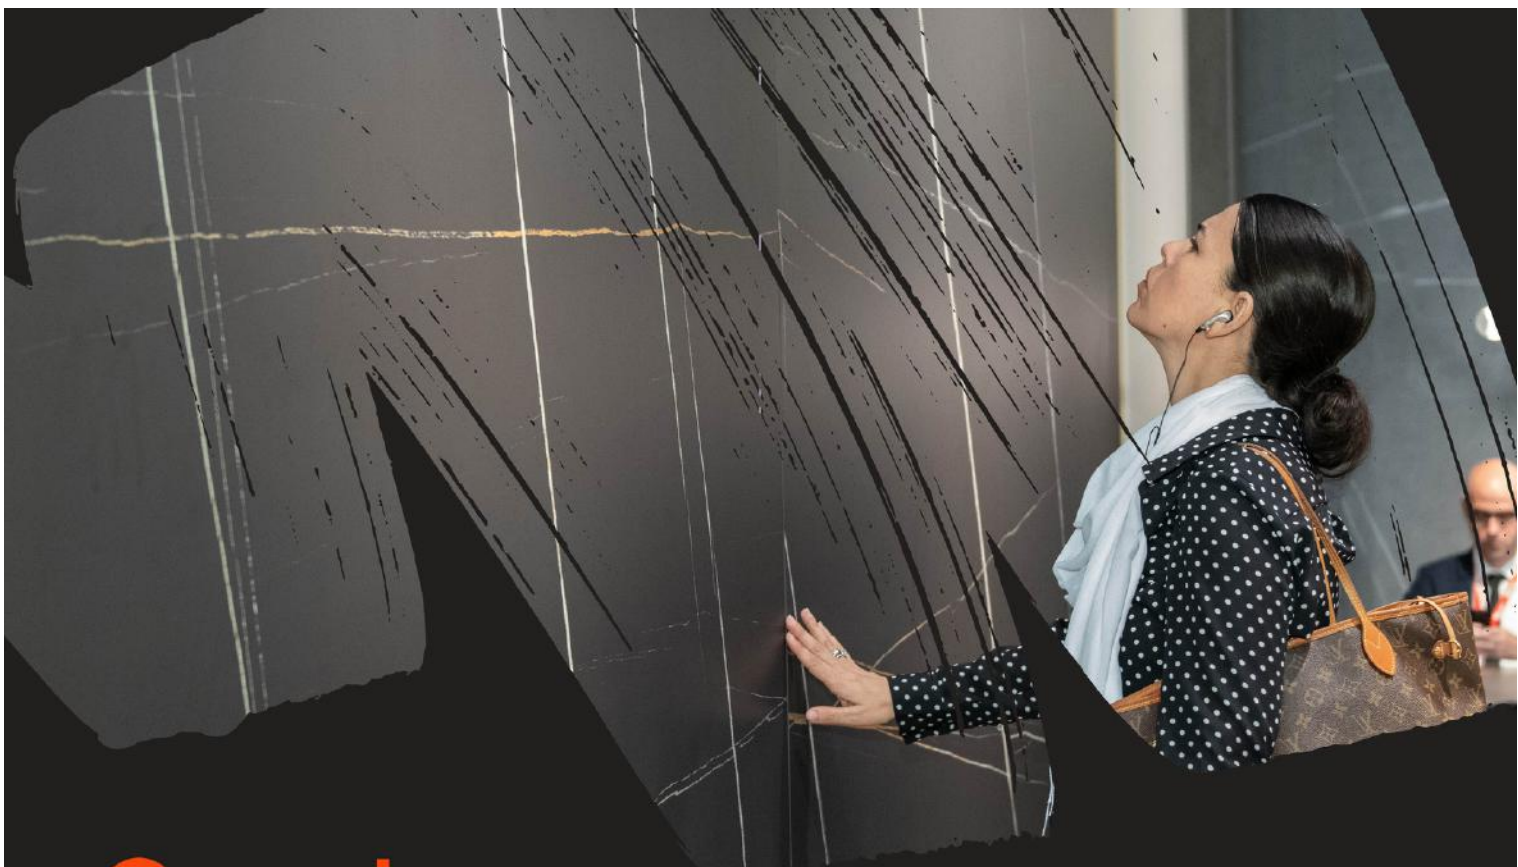

The 2022 FIFA World Cup in Qatar had seven brand new stadiums designed by some of the world's most famous stadium designers, we take a look!

The 2022 FIFA World Cup in Qatar features seven brand-new stadiums, one of which will fully disappear following the nearly month-long event. Some of the world's best designers have designed the new stadiums. In this article, we break down the architecture behind each that required a mix of cooling technologies, retractable roofs, and shade-offering designs and were inspired by Arab design.

Al Bayt Stadium Al Khor City Designed by AS+P Albert Speer + Partner and Dar Al-Handasah

Al Bayt Stadium is meant to resemble a tent historically used by nomadic people in the Qatar and Gulf region, a PTFE (Polytetrafluoroethylene) woven fibreglass membrane includes a retractable roof meant to compliment cooling technologies. Surrounded by green space, it will incorporate a shopping centre, food court, gym, multipurpose hall, and sports medicine hospital.
