ARCHITECT ICON

LESSONS ON LIGHT

Bangladeshi architect Marina Tabassum aims to create architecture that is sensitive to the history and traditions of its place, we profile her life and work

"Architecture can reinstall pride in the age-old wisdom of living symbiotically with nature. Architecture can empower communities to secure better lives and living conditions. and I firmly believe all this can be achieved without sacrificing the innate objective of space and place-making. Every site has a story,' Architecture adds to the narrative by building upon the ingredients sought out from these stories. Therefore, before we ask the brick what it wants to be, the conversation must begin with the question: 'who are you, brick? what is your story?'" - Architect Marina Tabassum

Architect Marina Tabassum is a Bangladeshi architect and principal architect of Marina Tabassum Architects. She was born in Dhaka, Bangladesh. She is the daughter of an oncologist. Her family migrated to Dhaka, Bangladesh from India during the partition of Bengal in 1947.

MAGIC IN STONE

The Dilwara Temples or Delvada Temples are a group of svetambara Jain temples located near the Mount Abu settlement in Sirohi District, Rajasthan, that date between the 11th and 16th centuries, making them some of the most famous monuments in the style of Maru-Gurjara architecture

The Dilwara Temples or Delvada Temples are a group of svetambara Jain temples located about 2½ kilometres from the Mount Abu settlement in Sirohi District, Rajasthan's only hill station. The earliest were built by Bhima Shah and supposedly designed or at least financed by Vastupala, Jain minister of Dholka. They date between the 11th and 16th centuries, forming some of the most famous monuments in the style of Māru-Gurjara architecture, famous for their use of a very pure white marble and intricate marble carvings.
