FUNCTIONAL GEOMETRY

Actfit Arena designed by Ar. Mueen Haris, founder DS2 Architecture employs spatial articulation in its truest sense

Actfit Arena is a beacon of recyclable and sustainable materials nestled in Hennur and designed by Ar.MueenHaris, founder DS2 Architecture. A sustainable sports court does more than reduce environmental impact, it builds for the future as well. It is evident from this project that there is no such thing as waste in architecture, and that every leftover can be put to good use with a little forethought. Almost 92% of this project was built using recycled, repurposed, or reused materials from previous projects. Through the right foresight, this project has essentially eliminated waste.

Embrace the Monsoon with Studio by Agni's Monsoon-Friendly Rugs

As the rains breathe new life into our surroundings, Studio by Agni unveils its curation of Monsoon-Friendly Rugs designed to bring warmth, resilience, and timeless style to homes even in the dampest weather.

Renowned for its commitment to artisanal craftsmanship and sustainable design, Studio by Agni takes an inspired leap into the seasonal palette with rugs that are not only visually rich but also monsoon-ready. Crafted using tightly woven techniques and natural, quick-drying fibers, these rugs are ideal for the transitional climate, resisting mildew and minimizing moisture absorption while retaining softness underfoot.

The collection is a celebration of earthy reds, terracotta browns, stormy blues, and rich indigo, evocative of rain-drenched soil, overcast skies, and lush monsoon landscapes. Each rug tells a story through age-old weaving traditions, translated into bold geometric patterns and elegant motifs that ground the space with character and comfort.

Küche7 molds luxury with Affogato, a sculptural symphony of warmth and innovation

Küche7, India's pioneer in luxury stainless steel kitchens, unveils the Affogato kitchen, a masterpiece where conversations flow, gatherings come alive, and design meets function in the most seamless way.

The luxurious, deep brown panels, featuring a distinctive brownstone texture that enriches its neutral tones, enhance its elegant simplicity without overpowering the area. The island, featuring a curved design and a marble surface, serves as the focal point, a stylish area where cooking innovation and social interaction merge. The built-in gas cooktop, seamlessly incorporated into the island, brings a sense of culinary flair, elevating the kitchen's appearance and its welcoming atmosphere.
